

Privacy

Under the Data Protection Act 1998, Chambers has a legal duty to protect information we collect from you. You can visit the Chambers website without telling us who you are or giving us any personal information that may identify you.

New Walk Chambers does not capture and store any personal information about those who access our website except where you choose to give us your personal details via email or by using an electronic form or where you enquire about our services.

Any of your personal data provided to Chambers will be used exclusively for providing you with the information you have requested. We do not pass any of your personal data to outside bodies or individuals except with your express consent. This is only necessary when we may need to share your information in order to provide the information or service requested.

New Walk Chambers will not collect any information, via cookies, about you except that required for system administration of the web server. We may from time to time contact you in relation to services that may be of interest to you. If you do not wish to receive such information then please let us know.

This privacy policy only covers the New Walk Chambers website. Links within this site to external websites are not covered by this policy.
